Abstract

SecB, a remarkable chaperone involved in protein export, binds diverse ligands rapidly with high affinity and electron paramagnetic resonance spectroscopy were used to investigate the surface of interaction on SecB in complex with the unfolded precursor form of outer membrane protein OmpA as well as with a transmembrane domain and lacks both the signal peptide and the periplasmic domain. In addition, we studied the mature form of galactose-binding protein, a soluble periplasmic protein. We have previously used the same precursor of galactose-binding protein. We show that for all ligands tested the patterns of contact are the

8. Joy Mott

Joy Mott was born in 1933 in Cape Town, South Africa. She gained an MA in psychology from the University of Natal in 1956. She was a Research Officer, Home Office Research Unit (now Research Development and Statistics Directorate), London, 1962–65 and Principal Research Officer from 1966–94. Her professional interests include the links between opiate use and crime, the epidemiology of drug misuse, and the relationship between science and policy in the drugs arena.

Addiction: Why did you leave South Africa and come to London?
Joy Mott: I left in 1957 intending to stay in Britain for a year or two, get a research job, broaden my experience, and to do some travelling. My first jobs here included 18 months as a research assistant to a psychiatrist working on depressives' sleeping patterns and then a year as a clinical psychologist at a neurological hospital.

A: What was your training?
