嘉南藥理科技大學九十七學年度第二學期轉學生招生考試 考試科目(二) 英語閱讀試題【四技三年級】 本試題共1張2面

准考證號碼:
. — — — — — —	I

注意
事項

本試題計 40 題,甲部分 20 題,每題 4 分; 乙部分 20 題,每題 6 分,兩者合計共 200 分。每題都有(A)(B)(C)(D) 四個答案,其中只有一個是正確,請將正確的答案選出,然後在答案卡上同一題號相對位置方格範圍內,用 2B 鉛筆全部塗黑,答對者得題分,答錯與不答者該題以零分計。

請先將本試題准考證號碼方格內,填上自己准考證號碼,考完後將「答案卡」及「試題」一倂繳回。

【甲】每題4分

I. 沒	選擇正確語義與詞彙
1.	Although she had in several movies, she was still not a very famous actor.
	(A) shown (B) starred (C) shoot (D) shone
2.	The conclusion of his argument, while, is far from
	(A) stimulating - interested (B) worthwhile - value (C) interesting - boring (D)difficult - incomprehensible
3.	Dr. Stuart needs to his argument with more experimental data, as his thesis is
	(A)define – satisfactory (B) refine - acceptable (C) support –profound (D) support - inadequate
4.	If we your advice, we won the contract.
	(A) take—will (B) took—would (C) have taken—would have (D) are taken—would have
5.	I was to learn that Betty and her husband were in the accident.
	(A)surprising—hurted (B)surprising—injured (C)surprised—hurt (D) shocked—injury
6.	I really your trying to arrive on time.
	(A) adjust (B) accuse (C) accompany (D) appreciate
7.	The secretary was fired because she ever answered the phone.
	(A) barely (B) cowardly (C) happily (D) cordially
8.	Mary was forced to buy a new cell phone after her old one working.
	(A) converted (B) contributed (C) ceased (D) confessed
9.	The new edition of this book is essentially the same as the old one since only changes were made.
	(A) major (B) merely (C) mortal (D) minor
10.	Being depressed for too long is known tofriendship.
	(A) rely (B) realize (C) rule (D) ruin
II. 🗄	挑出句子中錯誤的地方
11.	One of the most beautiful botanic gardens in the United States is the wildly and lovely Magonolia Gardens near Carolina.
	(A) most beautiful (B) gardens (C) wildly (D)near
12.	The discover of gold and silver in the rugged mountains of Nevada in 1858 attracted many fortune-seekers to that area .
	(A) discover (B) mountains (C) attracted (D) to that area
13.	Fannie Farmer, an educator and cooking expert, she wrote the first American cookbook.
	(A) an (B) cooking (C) she wrote (D) the first
14.	Waterwheels, which appeared on the fourth century B.C., were probably the first machines not powered by humans.
	(A) which (B) on (C) were (D) by
15.	On nights when is the sky clear and the air calm, the Earth's surface rapidly radiates heat into the atmosphere.
	(A) is the sky (B) the Earth's surface (C) rapidly radiates (D) into
16.	One reason birds have been so successful is because of they are able to escape from danger quickly .
	(A) have been (B) because of (C) from (D) quickly
17.	Not everyone realizes that the most largest organ of the human body is the skin.
	(A) Not everyone (B) that (C) most largest (D) is
18.	Mold is extremely destruction to books in a library .
	(A) extremely (B) destruction (C) books (D) a library
19.	Sharks can detect minute electrical discharges coming from its prey.
	(A) can detect (B) electrical (C) coming (D)its
20.	Dreams are commonly made up of either visual and verbal images .
	(A) commonly (B) made up of (C) and (D) images

【乙】每題6分

The study of history provides many benefits. First, we learn from the past. We may repeat mistakes, but, at least, we have the opportunity to avoid them. Second, history teaches us what questions to ask about the present. Contrary to some people's view, the study of history is not the memorization of names, dates, and places. It is the thoughtful examination of the forces that have shaped the courses of human life. We can examine events from the past and then draw inferences about current events. History teaches us about likely outcomes. Anyone who thinks that the study of history is boring has not really studied history.

- 21. What is the main idea of this passage?
 - (A) Studying history helps us to live in today's world. (B) Studying history helps us memorize names, dates, and places.
 - (C) The role of education is to help students deal with real life. (D) Students should study national history.

<背面尚有顯目>

	In line 4, "draw inferences" means
	(A) to delay something (B) to speak about something (C) to include something (D) to form some opinions
23.	As the author suggests, the study of history can (A) help us see the future (B) avoid mistakes (C) sometimes be boring (D) help us memorize names, dates, and places
24.	Which method of teaching history would the author of this passage support?
	(A) Applying historical events to modern society. (B) Using flash cards to remember specific facts.
	(C) Weekly quizzes on dates and events. (D) Student competitions for most books memorized.
	railroad was not the first institution to impose regularity on society, or to draw attention to the importance of precise ekeeping. For as long as merchants have set out their wares at daybreak and communal festivities have been celebrated, people been in rough agreement with their neighbors as to the time of day. The value of this tradition is today more apparent than
	r. Were it not for public acceptance of a single yardstick of time, social life would be unbearably chaotic .
	What is the main idea of the passage?
	(A) In modern society we must make more time for our neighbors.
	(B) The traditions of society are timeless.
	(C) An accepted way of measuring time is essential for the smooth functioning of society.(D) Society judges people by the times at which they conduct certain activities.
26.	In line 3, the phrase "this tradition" refers to
	(A) the practice of starting the business day at dawn (B) friendly relations between neighbors
	(C) the railroad's reliance on time schedules (D) people's agreement on the measurement of time
27.	The word "chaotic" in line 4 can be best replaced by (A) look of manay (B) look of order (C) look of transportation (D) look of food
It (2	(A) lack of money (B) lack of order (C) lack of transportation (D) lack of food (B) be common for dentists to have to remove teeth. However, with modern technology, (29) visits to the dentist's ce and good (30) hygiene at home, most people can keep their teeth for their lives.
	(A) uses to (B) used to (C) is used to (D) used
	(A) the (B) infrequent (C) regular (D) often
	(A) dental (B) cleaning (C) personal (D) tooth
	ple in different countries look at time differently. In some countries being on time and (31) everything by exact time is about time. It doesn't (33) if someone is late. In fact, people
•	th consider it (34) if you are exactly on time.
	(A)organizing (B)comparing (C)carrying (D)working
	(A)reflexive (B)relaxed (C)real (D)related
33
	(A)consider (B)matter (C)proper (D)admire
	(A)consider (B)matter (C)proper (D)admire (A)routine (B)redundant (C)rude (D)ruthless
	(A)routine (B)redundant (C)rude (D)ruthless
34.
34. Bev that	(A)routine (B)redundant (C)rude (D)ruthless Half-Truths vare of those who use the truth to deceive. When someone tells you something that is true, but leaves out important information should be included, he can create a false impression. For example, someone might say, "I just won a hundred dollars on the
Bev that lotte	(A)routine (B)redundant (C)rude (D)ruthless Half-Truths vare of those who use the truth to deceive. When someone tells you something that is true, but leaves out important information should be included, he can create a false impression. For example, someone might say, "I just won a hundred dollars on the ery. It was great. I took that dollar ticket back to the store and turned it in for one hundred dollars!" This guy's a winner, right?
Bew that lotte May	Half-Truths ware of those who use the truth to deceive. When someone tells you something that is true, but leaves out important information should be included, he can create a false impression. For example, someone might say, "I just won a hundred dollars on the ery. It was great. I took that dollar ticket back to the store and turned it in for one hundred dollars!" This guy's a winner, right? The whole was a winner. He's really a big loser! He
Bev that lotte May didr	Half-Truths vare of those who use the truth to deceive. When someone tells you something that is true, but leaves out important information should be included, he can create a false impression. For example, someone might say, "I just won a hundred dollars on the ery. It was great. I took that dollar ticket back to the store and turned it in for one hundred dollars!" This guy's a winner, right? The whole was a winner. He's really a big loser! He is any anything that was false, but he deliberately omitted important information. That's called a half-truth. Half-truths are not
Bew that lotte May didr tech	Half-Truths ware of those who use the truth to deceive. When someone tells you something that is true, but leaves out important information should be included, he can create a false impression. For example, someone might say, "I just won a hundred dollars on the ery. It was great. I took that dollar ticket back to the store and turned it in for one hundred dollars!" This guy's a winner, right? The whole was a winner. He's really a big loser! He
Bew that lotte May didr tech duri her	Half-Truths ware of those who use the truth to deceive. When someone tells you something that is true, but leaves out important information should be included, he can create a false impression. For example, someone might say, "I just won a hundred dollars on the ery. It was great. I took that dollar ticket back to the store and turned it in for one hundred dollars!" This guy's a winner, right? The way anything that was false, but he deliberately omitted important information. That's called a half-truth. Half-truths are not mically lies, but they are just as dishonest. Untrustworthy candidates in political campaigns often use this tactic. Let's say that ng Governor Smith's last term, her state lost one million jobs and gained three million jobs. Then she seeks another term. One of opponents runs an ad saying, "During Governor Smith's term, the sate lost one million jobs!" That's true. However an honest
Bew that lotte May didr tech duri her state	Half-Truths ware of those who use the truth to deceive. When someone tells you something that is true, but leaves out important information should be included, he can create a false impression. For example, someone might say, "I just won a hundred dollars on the ery. It was great. I took that dollar ticket back to the store and turned it in for one hundred dollars!" This guy's a winner, right? The way is a winner, right? We, maybe not. We then discover that he bought two hundred tickets, and only one was a winner. He's really a big loser! He is an an an an an antically lies, but they are just as dishonest. Untrustworthy candidates in political campaigns often use this tactic. Let's say that an governor Smith's last term, her state lost one million jobs and gained three million jobs. Then she seeks another term. One of opponents runs an ad saying, "During Governor Smith's term, the sate lost one million jobs." That's true. However an honest ement would have been, "During Governor Smith's term, the state had a net gain of two million jobs." Advertisers will sometimes
Bew that lotte May didn tech duri her state use	Half-Truths ware of those who use the truth to deceive. When someone tells you something that is true, but leaves out important information should be included, he can create a false impression. For example, someone might say, "I just won a hundred dollars on the ery. It was great. I took that dollar ticket back to the store and turned it in for one hundred dollars!" This guy's a winner, right? The way is anything that was false, but he deliberately omitted important information. That's called a half-truth. Half-truths are not unically lies, but they are just as dishonest. Untrustworthy candidates in political campaigns often use this tactic. Let's say that ng Governor Smith's last term, her state lost one million jobs and gained three million jobs. Then she seeks another term. One of opponents runs an ad saying, "During Governor Smith's term, the sate lost one million jobs." That's true. However an honest ement would have been, "During Governor Smith's term, the state had a net gain of two million jobs." Advertisers will sometimes half-truths. It's against the law to make false claims so they try to mislead you with the truth. An ad might boast, "Nine out of ten
Bev that lotte May didn tech duri her state use door	Half-Truths ware of those who use the truth to deceive. When someone tells you something that is true, but leaves out important information should be included, he can create a false impression. For example, someone might say, "I just won a hundred dollars on the ery. It was great. I took that dollar ticket back to the store and turned it in for one hundred dollars!" This guy's a winner, right? The way is a winner, right? We, maybe not. We then discover that he bought two hundred tickets, and only one was a winner. He's really a big loser! He is an an an an an antically lies, but they are just as dishonest. Untrustworthy candidates in political campaigns often use this tactic. Let's say that an governor Smith's last term, her state lost one million jobs and gained three million jobs. Then she seeks another term. One of opponents runs an ad saying, "During Governor Smith's term, the sate lost one million jobs." That's true. However an honest ement would have been, "During Governor Smith's term, the state had a net gain of two million jobs." Advertisers will sometimes
Bev that lotte May didn tech duri her state use door	Half-Truths ware of those who use the truth to deceive. When someone tells you something that is true, but leaves out important information should be included, he can create a false impression. For example, someone might say, "I just won a hundred dollars on the ery. It was great. I took that dollar ticket back to the store and turned it in for one hundred dollars!" This guy's a winner, right? The ybe, maybe not. We then discover that he bought two hundred tickets, and only one was a winner. He's really a big loser! He n't say anything that was false, but he deliberately omitted important information. That's called a half-truth. Half-truths are not mically lies, but they are just as dishonest. Untrustworthy candidates in political campaigns often use this tactic. Let's say that ng Governor Smith's last term, her state lost one million jobs and gained three million jobs. Then she seeks another term. One of opponents runs an ad saying, "During Governor Smith's term, the sate lost one million jobs." That's true. However an honest ement would have been, "During Governor Smith's term, the state had a net gain of two million jobs." Advertisers will sometimes half-truths. It's against the law to make false claims so they try to mislead you with the truth. An ad might boast, "Nine out of ten tors recommend Yucky Pills to cure nose pimples." It fails to mention that they only asked ten doctors and nine of them work for Yucky Corporation. This kind of deception happens too often. It's a sad fact of life: Lies are lies, and sometimes the truth can lie
Bew that lotte May didn tech duri her state use door the as w	Half-Truths ware of those who use the truth to deceive. When someone tells you something that is true, but leaves out important information should be included, he can create a false impression. For example, someone might say, "I just won a hundred dollars on the ery. It was great. I took that dollar ticket back to the store and turned it in for one hundred dollars!" This guy's a winner, right? The way anything that was false, but he deliberately omitted important information. That's called a half-truth. Half-truths are not unically lies, but they are just as dishonest. Untrustworthy candidates in political campaigns often use this tactic. Let's say that ng Governor Smith's last term, her state lost one million jobs and gained three million jobs. Then she seeks another term. One of opponents runs an ad saying, "During Governor Smith's term, the sate lost one million jobs!" That's true. However an honest ement would have been, "During Governor Smith's term, the state had a net gain of two million jobs." Advertisers will sometimes half-truths. It's against the law to make false claims so they try to mislead you with the truth. An ad might boast, "Nine out of ten tors recommend Yucky Pills to cure nose pimples." It fails to mention that they only asked ten doctors and nine of them work for Yucky Corporation. This kind of deception happens too often. It's a sad fact of life: Lies are lies, and sometimes the truth can lie well. Which statement is true according to the article?
Bew that lotte May didn tech duri her state use door the as w	Half-Truths ware of those who use the truth to deceive. When someone tells you something that is true, but leaves out important information should be included, he can create a false impression. For example, someone might say, "I just won a hundred dollars on the ery. It was great. I took that dollar ticket back to the store and turned it in for one hundred dollars!" This guy's a winner, right? ybe, maybe not. We then discover that he bought two hundred tickets, and only one was a winner. He's really a big loser! He a't say anything that was false, but he deliberately omitted important information. That's called a half-truth. Half-truths are not mically lies, but they are just as dishonest. Untrustworthy candidates in political campaigns often use this tactic. Let's say that may Governor Smith's last term, her state lost one million jobs and gained three million jobs. Then she seeks another term. One of opponents runs an ad saying, "During Governor Smith's term, the sate lost one million jobs." That's true. However an honest ement would have been, "During Governor Smith's term, the state had a net gain of two million jobs." Advertisers will sometimes half-truths. It's against the law to make false claims so they try to mislead you with the truth. An ad might boast, "Nine out of ten tors recommend Yucky Pills to cure nose pimples." It fails to mention that they only asked ten doctors and nine of them work for Yucky Corporation. This kind of deception happens too often. It's a sad fact of life: Lies are lies, and sometimes the truth can lie vell. Which statement is true according to the article? (A) Whenever people tell the truth, they are really lying. (B) You can't trust advertisements.
Bew that lotte May didn tech duri her state use door the as w 35.	Half-Truths vare of those who use the truth to deceive. When someone tells you something that is true, but leaves out important information should be included, he can create a false impression. For example, someone might say, "I just won a hundred dollars on the ery. It was great. I took that dollar ticket back to the store and turned it in for one hundred dollars!" This guy's a winner, right? ybe, maybe not. We then discover that he bought two hundred tickets, and only one was a winner. He's really a big loser! He it say anything that was false, but he deliberately omitted important information. That's called a half-truth. Half-truths are not mically lies, but they are just as dishonest. Untrustworthy candidates in political campaigns often use this tactic. Let's say that ng Governor Smith's last term, her state lost one million jobs and gained three million jobs. Then she seeks another term. One of opponents runs an ad saying, "During Governor Smith's term, the sate lost one million jobs." That's true. However an honest ement would have been, "During Governor Smith's term, the state had a net gain of two million jobs." Advertisers will sometimes half-truths. It's against the law to make false claims so they try to mislead you with the truth. An ad might boast, "Nine out of ten tors recommend Yucky Pills to cure nose pimples." It fails to mention that they only asked ten doctors and nine of them work for Yucky Corporation. This kind of deception happens too often. It's a sad fact of life: Lies are lies, and sometimes the truth can lie well. Which statement is true according to the article? (A) Whenever people tell the truth, they are really lying. (B) You can't trust advertisements. (D) The truth can be used in dishonest ways.
Bew that lotte May didn tech duri her state use door the as w 35.	Half-Truths ware of those who use the truth to deceive. When someone tells you something that is true, but leaves out important information should be included, he can create a false impression. For example, someone might say, "I just won a hundred dollars on the ery. It was great. I took that dollar ticket back to the store and turned it in for one hundred dollars!" This guy's a winner, right? Whe, maybe not. We then discover that he bought two hundred tickets, and only one was a winner. He's really a big loser! He i't say anything that was false, but he deliberately omitted important information. That's called a half-truth. Half-truths are not unically lies, but they are just as dishonest. Untrustworthy candidates in political campaigns often use this tactic. Let's say that any Governor Smith's last term, her state lost one million jobs and gained three million jobs. Then she seeks another term. One of opponents runs an ad saying, "During Governor Smith's term, the sate lost one million jobs!" That's true. However an honest ement would have been, "During Governor Smith's term, the state had a net gain of two million jobs." Advertisers will sometimes half-truths. It's against the law to make false claims so they try to mislead you with the truth. An ad might boast, "Nine out of ten tors recommend Yucky Pills to cure nose pimples." It fails to mention that they only asked ten doctors and nine of them work for Yucky Corporation. This kind of deception happens too often. It's a sad fact of life: Lies are lies, and sometimes the truth can lie well. Which statement is true according to the article? (A) Whenever people tell the truth, they are really lying. (B) You can't trust advertisements. (C) Halt-truths are actually lies that are used to fool people. (D) The truth can be used in dishonest ways.
Bew that lotte May didn tech duri her state use door the as w 35.	Half-Truths ware of those who use the truth to deceive. When someone tells you something that is true, but leaves out important information should be included, he can create a false impression. For example, someone might say, "I just won a hundred dollars on the ery. It was great. I took that dollar ticket back to the store and turned it in for one hundred dollars!" This guy's a winner, right? Whe, maybe not. We then discover that he bought two hundred tickets, and only one was a winner. He's really a big loser! He i't say anything that was false, but he deliberately omitted important information. That's called a half-truth. Half-truths are not unically lies, but they are just as dishonest. Untrustworthy candidates in political campaigns often use this tactic. Let's say that any Governor Smith's last term, her state lost one million jobs and gained three million jobs. Then she seeks another term. One of opponents runs an ad saying, "During Governor Smith's term, the sate lost one million jobs!" That's true. However an honest ement would have been, "During Governor Smith's term, the state had a net gain of two million jobs." Advertisers will sometimes half-truths. It's against the law to make false claims so they try to mislead you with the truth. An ad might boast, "Nine out of ten tors recommend Yucky Pills to cure nose pimples." It fails to mention that they only asked ten doctors and nine of them work for Yucky Corporation. This kind of deception happens too often. It's a sad fact of life: Lies are lies, and sometimes the truth can lie well. Which statement is true according to the article? (A) Whenever people tell the truth, they are really lying. (B) You can't trust advertisements. (C) Halt-truths are actually lies that are used to fool people. (D) The truth can be used in dishonest ways.
Bew that lotte May didn tech duri her state use door the as w 35.	Half-Truths vare of those who use the truth to deceive. When someone tells you something that is true, but leaves out important information should be included, he can create a false impression. For example, someone might say, "I just won a hundred dollars on the ery. It was great. I took that dollar ticket back to the store and turned it in for one hundred dollars!" This guy's a winner, right? This quy's a winner, right? This guy's a winner, right? This quy's a winner, rig
Bew that lotte May didn tech duri her state use door the as w 35.	Half-Truths vare of those who use the truth to deceive. When someone tells you something that is true, but leaves out important information should be included, he can create a false impression. For example, someone might say, "I just won a hundred dollars on the ery. It was great. I took that dollar ticket back to the store and turned it in for one hundred dollars!" This guy's a winner, right? They, maybe not. We then discover that he bought two hundred tickets, and only one was a winner. He's really a big loser! He it say anything that was false, but he deliberately omitted important information. That's called a half-truth. Half-truths are not mically lies, but they are just as dishonest. Untrustworthy candidates in political campaigns often use this tactic. Let's say that ng Governor Smith's last term, her state lost one million jobs and gained three million jobs. Then she seeks another term. One of opponents runs an ad saying, "During Governor Smith's term, the sate lost one million jobs." That's true. However an honest ement would have been, "During Governor Smith's term, the state had a net gain of two million jobs." Advertisers will sometimes half-truths. It's against the law to make false claims so they try to mislead you with the truth. An ad might boast, "Nine out of ten tors recommend Yucky Pills to cure nose pimples." It fails to mention that they only asked ten doctors and nine of them work for Yucky Corporation. This kind of deception happens too often. It's a sad fact of life: Lies are lies, and sometimes the truth can lie well. Which statement is true according to the article? (A) Whenever people tell the truth, they are really lying. (B) You can't trust advertisements. (C) Halt-truths are actually lies that are used to fool people. (D) The truth can be used in dishonest ways. What does "deceive" mean? (A) to remove one's teeth in public (C) to fool people (D) to do something evil What does "omitted" mean? (A) spent money (B) left out (C) told about (D) exposed
Bew that lotte May didn tech duri her state use door the as w 35.	Half-Truths ware of those who use the truth to deceive. When someone tells you something that is true, but leaves out important information should be included, he can create a false impression. For example, someone might say, "I just won a hundred dollars on the ery. It was great. I took that dollar ticket back to the store and turned it in for one hundred dollars!" This guy's a winner, right? ybe, maybe not. We then discover that he bought two hundred tickets, and only one was a winner. He's really a big loser! He it say anything that was false, but he deliberately omitted important information. That's called a half-truth. Half-truths are not mically lies, but they are just as dishonest. Untrustworthy candidates in political campaigns often use this tactic. Let's say that ng Governor Smith's last term, her state lost one million jobs and gained three million jobs. Then she seeks another term. One of opponents runs an ad saying, "During Governor Smith's term, the sate lost one million jobs." That's true. However an honest ement would have been, "During Governor Smith's term, the state had a net gain of two million jobs." Advertisers will sometimes half-truths. It's against the law to make false claims so they try to mislead you with the truth. An ad might boast, "Nine out of ten tors recommend Yucky Pills to cure nose pimples." It fails to mention that they only asked ten doctors and nine of them work for Yucky Corporation. This kind of deception happens too often. It's a sad fact of life: Lies are lies, and sometimes the truth can lie vell. Which statement is true according to the article? (A) Whenever people tell the truth, they are really lying. (B) You can't trust advertisements. (C) Halt-truths are actually lies that are used to fool people. (D) The truth can be used in dishonest ways. What does "deceive" mean? (A) to remove one's teeth in public (B) to ignore warnings (C) to fool people (D) to do something evil What does "omitted" mean? (A) spent money (B) left out (C) told about (D) expos
Bew that lotte May didn tech duri her state use door the as w 35.	Half-Truths vare of those who use the truth to deceive. When someone tells you something that is true, but leaves out important information should be included, he can create a false impression. For example, someone might say, "I just won a hundred dollars on the ery. It was great. I took that dollar ticket back to the store and turned it in for one hundred dollars!" This guy's a winner, right? They, maybe not. We then discover that he bought two hundred tickets, and only one was a winner. He's really a big loser! He it say anything that was false, but he deliberately omitted important information. That's called a half-truth. Half-truths are not mically lies, but they are just as dishonest. Untrustworthy candidates in political campaigns often use this tactic. Let's say that ng Governor Smith's last term, her state lost one million jobs and gained three million jobs. Then she seeks another term. One of opponents runs an ad saying, "During Governor Smith's term, the sate lost one million jobs." That's true. However an honest ement would have been, "During Governor Smith's term, the state had a net gain of two million jobs." Advertisers will sometimes half-truths. It's against the law to make false claims so they try to mislead you with the truth. An ad might boast, "Nine out of ten tors recommend Yucky Pills to cure nose pimples." It fails to mention that they only asked ten doctors and nine of them work for Yucky Corporation. This kind of deception happens too often. It's a sad fact of life: Lies are lies, and sometimes the truth can lie well. Which statement is true according to the article? (A) Whenever people tell the truth, they are really lying. (B) You can't trust advertisements. (C) Halt-truths are actually lies that are used to fool people. (D) The truth can be used in dishonest ways. What does "deceive" mean? (A) to remove one's teeth in public (C) to fool people (D) to do something evil What does "omitted" mean? (A) spent money (B) left out (C) told about (D) exposed
Bew that lotte May didn tech duri her state use door the as w 35. 36.	Half-Truths vare of those who use the truth to deceive. When someone tells you something that is true, but leaves out important information should be included, he can create a false impression. For example, someone might say, "I just won a hundred dollars on the ery. It was great. I took that dollar ticket back to the store and turned it in for one hundred dollars!" This guy's a winner, right? when, maybe not. We then discover that he bought two hundred tickets, and only one was a winner. He's really a big loser! He it say anything that was false, but he deliberately omitted important information. That's called a half-truth. Half-truths are not mically lies, but they are just as dishonest. Untrustworthy candidates in political campaigns often use this tactic. Let's say that ng Governor Smith's letrm, her state lost one million jobs and gained three million jobs. Then she seeks another term. One of opponents runs an ad saying, "During Governor Smith's term, the sate lost one million jobs." That's true. However an honest sment would have been, "During Governor Smith's term, the state had a net gain of two million jobs." Advertisers will sometimes half-truths. It's against the law to make false claims so they try to mislead you with the truth. An ad might boast, "Nine out of ten tors recommend Yucky Pills to cure nose pimples." It fails to mention that they only asked ten doctors and nine of them work for Yucky Corporation. This kind of deception happens too often. It's a sad fact of life: Lies are lies, and sometimes the truth can lie well. Which statement is true according to the article? (A) Whenever people tell the truth, they are really lying. (B) You can't trust advertisements. (C) Halt-truths are actually lies that are used to fool people. (D) The truth can be used in dishonest ways. What does "deceive" mean? (A) to remove one's teeth in public (B) to ignore warnings (C) to fool people (D) to do something evil What does "onitted" mean? (A) think carefully about what they read and hear (B) wear
Bew that lotte May didn tech duri her state use door the as w 35. 36.	Half-Truths vare of those who use the truth to deceive. When someone tells you something that is true, but leaves out important information should be included, he can create a false impression. For example, someone might say, "I just won a hundred dollars on the try. It was great. I took that dollar ticket back to the store and turned it in for one hundred dollars?" This guy's a winner, right? whe, maybe not. We then discover that he bought two hundred tickets, and only one was a winner. He's really a big loser! He i't say anything that was false, but he deliberately omitted important information. That's called a half-truth. Half-truths are not mically lies, but they are just as dishonest. Untrustworthy candidates in political campaigns often use this tactic. Let's say that ng Governor Smith's last term, her state lost one million jobs and gained three million jobs. Then she seeks another term. One of opponents runs an ad saying, "During Governor Smith's term, the sate lost one million jobs." That's true. However an honest ement would have been, "During Governor Smith's term, the state had a net gain of two million jobs." Advertisers will sometimes half-truths. It's against the law to make false claims so they try to mislead you with the truth. An ad might boast, "Nine out of ten tors recommend Yucky Pills to cure nose pimples." It fails to mention that they only asked ten doctors and nine of them work for Yucky Corporation. This kind of deception happens too often. It's a sad fact of life: Lies are lies, and sometimes the truth can lie vell. Which statement is true according to the article? (A) Whenever people tell the truth, they are really lying. (B) You can't trust advertisements. (C) Halt-truths are actually lies that are used to fool people. (D) The truth can be used in dishonest ways. What does "deceive" mean? (A) to remove one's teeth in public (B) to ignore warnings (C) to fool people (D) to do something evil What does "deceive" mean? (A) spent money (B) left out (C) to fool people (D)
Bew that lotte May didn tech duri her state use door the as w 35. 36.	Half-Truths vare of those who use the truth to deceive. When someone tells you something that is true, but leaves out important information should be included, he can create a false impression. For example, someone might say, "I just won a hundred dollars on the bry. It was great. I took that dollar ticket back to the store and turned it in for one hundred dollars!" This guy's a winner, right? whe, maybe not. We then discover that he bought two hundred tickets, and only one was a winner. He's really a big loser! He it say anything that was false, but he deliberately omitted important information. That's called a half-truth. Half-truths are not mically lies, but they are just as dishonest. Untrustworthy candidates in political campaigns often use this tactic. Let's say that ng Governor Smith's last term, her state lost one million jobs and gained three million jobs." That's true. However an honest ement would have been, "During Governor Smith's term, the sate lost one million jobs." That's true. However an honest ement would have been, "During Governor Smith's term, the state had a net gain of two million jobs." Advertisers will sometimes half-truths. It's against the law to make false claims so they try to mislead you with the truth. An ad might boast, "Nine out of ten tors recommend Yucky Pills to cure nose pimples." It fails to mention that they only asked ten doctors and nine of them work for Yucky Corporation. This kind of deception happens too often. It's a sad fact of life: Lies are lies, and sometimes the truth can lie vell. Which statement is true according to the article? (A) Whenever people tell the truth, they are really lying. (B) You can't trust advertisements. (C) Halt-truths are actually lies that are used to fool people. (D) The truth can be used in dishonest ways. What does "deceive" mean? (A) to remove one's teeth in public (B) to ignore warnings (C) to fool people (B) to ignore warnings (C) to fool people (B) to ignore warnings (C) to fool people (B) to ignore warnings (C) to
Bew that lotted May didn't tech duri her state use door the as w 35. 36. 37. 38.	Half-Truths vare of those who use the truth to deceive. When someone tells you something that is true, but leaves out important information should be included, he can create a false impression. For example, someone might say, "I just won a hundred dollars on the try. It was great. I took that dollar ticket back to the store and turned it in for one hundred dollars'! This guy's a winner, right? whe, maybe not. We then discover that he bought two hundred tickets, and only one was a winner. He's really a big loser! He i't say anything that was false, but he deliberately omitted important information. That's called a half-truth. Half-truths are not mically lies, but they are just as dishonest. Untrustworthy candidates in political campaigns often use this tactic. Let's say that ng Governor Smith's last term, her state lost one million jobs and gained three million jobs. Then she seeks another term. One of opponents runs an ad saying, "During Governor Smith's term, the sate lost one million jobs." That's true. However an honest ement would have been, "During Governor Smith's term, the state had a net gain of two million jobs." Advertisers will sometimes half-truths. It's against the law to make false claims so they try to mislead you with the truth. An ad might boast, "Nine out of ten tors recommend Yucky Pills to cure nose pimples." It fails to mention that they only asked ten doctors and nine of them work for Yucky Corporation. This kind of deception happens too often. It's a sad fact of life: Lies are lies, and sometimes the truth can lievell. Which statement is true according to the article? (A) Whenever people tell the truth, they are really lying. (B) You can't trust advertisements. (C) Halt-truths are actually lies that are used to fool people. (D) The truth can be used in dishonest ways. What does "deceive" mean? (A) to remove one's teeth in public (B) to ignore warnings (C) to fool people (D) to do something evil What does "deceive" mean? (A) spent money (B) eff out (C) to fool people (D) to